CHRISTIAN MCBRIDE is the premier bassist on the today's jazz and pop scene. He is simply without peer on his instrument and the first choice as collaborator for everyone from Sting and Billy Joel to Sonny Rollins and Pat Metheny. With his latest ensemble INSIDE STRAIGHT, McBride has created KIND OF BROWN, a masterwork of upbeat, straight ahead jazz with a strong bebop feel and swing, a tribute to Ray Brown and the very significant musical legacy that is in danger of being forgotten .

"...a recipe for the kind of contemporary-straightahead set that gets old-school jazzers misty-eyed but invites converts, too...a gregariously unpretentious blowing session that revisits familiar jazz territories, but with a vivacity that bathes them with new light. "

GUARDIAN (UK)

"McBride finally feels focused and serious. [KIND OF BROWN] is unself-consciously traditional: it's fun; it swings its ass off. This is the kind of recording that the great players of the past would have put out every year or so...It's hot."
