AMERICAN LEGACIES

PRESERVATION HALL JAZZ BAND WITH THE DEL MCCOURY BAND

For the first time ever the joyous, syncopated rhythms of New Orleans' own Preservation Hall Jazz Band meet the soul lifting, traditional harmonies of the Del McCoury Band on their groundbreaking collaboration AMERICAN LEGACIES. The name of the new style: MARDI GRASS. AMERICAN LEGACIES has appeared on David Letterman, Bonnaroo Music and Arts Festival, Madison Square Garden, Austin City Limits, The New Orleans Jazz And Heritage Festival and dozens of others stages and festivals across North America. Audiences will be on their feet as clarinets swap solos with fiddles and mandolins trade licks with trumpets. AMERICAN LEGACIES will have audiences of all ages dancing in the aisles.

"traditions melt together"
- The New York Times

"The fiddles and clarinets interweave magically, and it manages the considerable feat of swinging like crazy... a ripping good time."
- Paste Magazine

"They go together like gin and vermouth, and the combined ensembles shake it up with aplomb"
- East Bay Express

"McCoury's weathered "high-and-lonesome" bluegrass voice finds immediate and arresting chemistry with the now 50-year-old Preservation Hall jazz tradition."
American Songwriter

"one of the most compelling collaborations of 2011"
-CBS's streetdate.radio.com

"5 out of 5 stars"
-Downbeat Magazine

PRESERVATION HALL JAZZ BAND:

The recipients of the MEDAL OF ARTS, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band has toured for over 5 decades taking the unique sounds and rhythms of New Orleans to audiences worldwide. Under Creative Director Ben Jaffe, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band is forging new ground by introducing its special blend of jazz to new audiences while honoring its storied history. The band has graced stages from Carnegie Hall to performances in the White House to jam sessions with the King Of Thailand. Preservation Hall is a living, breathing institution where traditions and culture are cause for celebration.

THE DEL MCCOURY BAND:

The Del McCoury Band is a world-class bluegrass ensemble that performs original and traditional compositions with eloquent harmonies and "ferocious, purebred musicianship" (USA Today). Holding more than 30 trophies from the International Bluegrass Music Association Awards (including 9 for Entertainer of the Year) and multiple Grammy awards and nominations, they're the most honored group in bluegrass history, earning the acclaim of colleagues throughout the music industry, ranging from Dierks Bentley to pop star Bjork to jam band favorites Phish. Their fans, many of whom proudly claim the title of "Del-Head," are equally diverse and unanimously passionate, filling venues from Carnegie Hall and Kennedy Center to New Orleans' Preservation Hall and the Grand Ole Opry.
